Mark "Big Daddy" Lisko

August 2, 1957 - April 26, 2020

This is the Cliffs' Notes version of Mark Lisko's life. We advise reading this at a fast pace because Mark is in heaven right now already telling us to wrap it up.

Big Daddy.

Mark was born to Bud (from whom he got his booming laugh and big personality) and to Joyce (from whom he got his kind spirit and deep loyalty to family). He was the oldest (and frequently the bossiest) to his sisters, Eileen and Adele, and to his brothers, Roger and Brian. (He wisely let Nurse Eileen be the boss when he sought her nursing advice.) When his siblings added spouses Don, Jane, and Karen along with nephew Jake and nieces, Michelle, Elena, Alexa, and Nika, Mark bossed them too -- and always with a mixture of sarcasm, affection, and humor.

In case you are curious about his "Big Daddy" nickname, we know he earned it when he worked for Skylark Meats. His former coworkers at Skylark aren't explaining and we aren't asking. He wasn't afraid to dole out nicknames of his own. He sometimes called himself "Markie L" and called his siblings "Roggie L", "Eileen L", etcetera. He clearly got stuck in a "nickname rut" but he did call his lifelong friend, Brian Guilfoyle, "G Funk Brian-y G Master."

Big Laugh

Without question, Mark was a serious intellectual who didn't take life seriously. He graduated with a theology degree from Creighton University and we are pretty sure that was the last time he was holy. We think it was enough to get him pointed toward heaven but would really appreciate it if you would pause your reading right now to say a quick prayer to boost his chances.

Mark was a man of great dichotomies. He loved quality professional clothing but loved his fishing gear more. He especially loved fishing with his brother, Roger, and with his fishing buddies. He made it a priority to take his nieces and nephew fishing from a young age. Still, he was known to sleep through some of the better moments and would often snore while in the fishing boat. He was awake enough once to cast his line and snare Brian Guilfoyle's ear with a lure. He laced his sympathy with his big laugh, accusing Brian of getting his ear in Mark's way.

Mark loved sharing fine wine but didn't drink it himself. Instead, he used his "wine connoisseur" talents to teach his sweet mom, "Joyce L," to swirl the red wine just so, even though her laughter at Mark's coaching likely swirled the glass more than his technique did.

Mark barely liked golf and it showed in his game. He liked being with his golfing buddies more. They really should be ashamed of themselves for remembering him more for breaking his seven iron over his knee once and for driving the ball into a 50 feet high utility wire twice. Apparently, Mark was trying to find a hole in the ozone rather than a hole in one. No one laughed at his golfing "misses" more than Mark.

Mark loved his nieces and nephew so much that he provided them with equal parts teasing and equal parts mentoring. He often gave them personalized recommendations for his favorite books and movies. In direct Lisko fashion, he was never shy about his opinions of their life choices, including in clothing. Once his protectiveness translated into "protective gear" for one niece who he concluded was showing a little too much skin in her prom photo. His Christmas gift to her that year was a long-sleeved "sack dress" with matching hat that covered her from head to toe. On a more productive note, Mark brought in his niece, Michelle, to learn the family insurance business and teased her mercilessly while mentoring her. Eleven years later, Michelle is still in the business, learned to tease Mark mercilessly back, and will deeply miss Mark's triple threat of humor, friendship, and wisdom.

Big I.

In his professional career, Mark lived a long professional life in a short period of time. He took over the Lisko Agency from his dad, Bud, (with helpful growth of clientele from Brian and Adele) and eventually merged into being a partner at Insurance Planning Associates. He was fortunate to continue working with longtime colleague to Bud and business partner to Mark, Kim Holtorff, who, to this day, is a beloved family friend along with his wife, Nancy Holtorff. Mark worked tirelessly to expand Insurance Planning Associates which operates today in four office locations and has three additional partners. Mark was passionate about keeping the independent insurance agency system thriving, which showed in his mentoring of young agents and in being instrumental in creating an Associates Degree in Insurance through Northeast Community College. He served on professional boards and charitable organizations over the years, most recently as the National Director representing Nebraska in the Big "I" organization. Mark's colleagues have called his dedication, knowledge, and leadership some of the best in the industry.

Big Heart.

The depth of our grief over the loss of Mark mirrors the depth of his life and the “bigness” of his heart. Mark’s friends were family to him. His close friends, Kelly Henry and Brian Guilfoyle, are literally part of family holidays because that’s exactly where they belong. In fact, Brian Guilfoyle has already made it known that he “is the oldest now and Mark left him in charge.” If you are a friend of Mark’s reading this right now, you are no doubt nodding your head at some crazy story he either told you or in which you are a main character, whether as: a fishing friend, a baseball friend, a card playing friend, a work friend, a cousin friend, an aunt/uncle friend, or a Cohen & Kelly’s friend.

You left us too soon, Mark. Big Daddy. Big Laugh. Big heart. Big Loss..

“ My sympathies to the Lisko family. Mark always had a friendly smile and was always ready to engage in thoughtful conversation. He was a leader and an advocate for many, both inside and outside the insurance industry, and will be missed greatly.

“ Many prayers to the Lisko family. I have known and worked with Mark in many areas of the insurance industry in Nebraska over the past 20 years. Over that time, we have become good friends and he would ask anytime how the fish were biting at Lake McConaughy and that he needed to come out here to fish. His quick wit and knowledge of our industry were characteristics that made any conversation with him a great conversation to have. As many have mentioned, his style in clothing was impeccable. He will be greatly missed by our colleagues in the insurance industry and even more by you. I hope you're sharing many great fish stories of his today and the days to come.

“ Mark was an outstanding leader who put his whole heart and mind into his work for the Big "I" and its members, especially young agents. We are filled with sadness at the loss of a great man and friend, but seeing the outpouring of thoughts we have received from his colleagues in the Big "I" - from Nebraska and across the country - warms our hearts. Many independent agents and company representatives have benefited - and will continue to benefit from Mark's friendship and devotion to making the independent agency system better through the Big "I". Mark's legacy will not be forgotten and we will do our best to carry the torch that he lit with his life.

“ Mark Lisko - there is no one quite like you. Your generosity, kindness and grace is unmatched. I will miss your presence, smile, mentorship and friendship; your body was no match for your spirit.

Big Daddy you have enriched our lives personally and professionally and you will never be forgotten. Here's to endless (and successful) fishing, card playing, movie watching and more without limitations. Enjoy the next phase, we have certainly enjoyed you.

“ I feel very blessed that I got to know Mark when I worked at one of the IPA offices for 6 yrs. I can hear his boisterous laugh in my head...it was so infectious. When he would call and ask for my assistance, it always made me laugh as I thought he knew "everything". I think that's what he wanted us all to think (laugh), but he was humble when he wasn't sure about something. The world is left with a big hole with him being gone....but the fish are now safe.

All my love and prayers to the family during this very difficult time.

“ To all the family members of Mark.....I was so sorry to hear of your loss.. I know no words will change all that you are going through, but please know you are in my thoughts and prayers. Mark always had a can-do move forward attitude, despite his setbacks. Over the years I knew him, he had great energy. I knew he had to always get up everyday excited about what the day would bring. It was evident he loved his family, his friends, and expected the best out of himself and those around him. He set the bar high for those of us that followed him in the Big I. He was my definition of a "Good Man". He was a friend. He will be missed.

“ Mark was a good friend and a good man. Over the many years we worked together in the Independent Insurance Agents of Nebraska I came to have great respect for Marks great knowledge and very high level of professionalism. I also became an admirer of his extensive and always stylish wardrobe. His sense of humor made him a joy to be with.

I will always remember Mark in one of his many his tailor made vests holding forth over a good meal with friends about his latest fishing trip adventure that often involved the big one that got away. We were lucky to have with us. My thoughts and prayers are with the Lisko family in this sad time. God bless, Jim Cavanaugh

“ My deepest condolences to Mark's family. I was on the IIAN Board with Mark and we not only insurance in common, but pacemakers as well! We had several conversations about our tickers, and I thought all was well with Mark's health. Mark had a robust personality and seemed to love life, as well as the work he did for our organization. We were all shocked and saddened by his sudden passing. We know he is in a better place, but he certainly leaves an enormous hole in our hearts. My prayers for peace and love to the family he leaves behind.

“ I had the pleasure of knowing Mark through his volunteer activities on behalf of his fellow agents. First, he was extremely bright but didn't feel compelled to constantly demonstrate it. Second, as chairman of the board I was involved with he welcomed everyone's opinion as his goal was to arrive at the best possible outcome. My one big regret is that he invited me to be his guest at the College World Series and I procrastinated in getting out there. He was a genuine person. We'll keep Mark and his family in our prayers.

“ Mark was my chairman of two companies at the Big I National. What can one say about such a genuine person that comes close to all he was? A top agent, selfless, inspiration in how he treated each insured and how he treated us as staffers. And then all that history you get little bits and pieces of, like the meat packing plant in his younger days. There is no job that doesn't teach you a lot is what he told me. My greatest regret is not making to the fishing trip in Minnesota the same time as Mark. Work hours were way, way less time than I'd have liked to spend with him. I'll miss you Mark. I'm sure the bass and muskies are plentiful and big where you are.

“ I met Mark 7 years ago when I moved to Nebraska to be a Marketing Representative for Auto-Owners Insurance. I remember him for his flashy dress and great knowledge of the insurance business. He actually intimidated me to begin with but over these last 7 years we developed what I believe was a mutual respect and friendship. He liked to "give me the business" when i came in about the big bad insurance companies. I would imagine that all Marketing people got the same feedback! He was a true insurance professional and I will miss these visits going forward. Rest in Peace Mark. Michelle Tiedeman, Marketing Representative Auto-Owners Insurance.

“ It is with great sadness to know Mark is no longer with us here on earth. I know he has joined others gone before us now with the Lord. I was fortunate enough to work with Mark in the insurance industry which I know he was 100% committed to in both agency ownership and the many contributions he made serving on insurance committees and leadership roles. He will be truly missed. God Bless his friends, colleagues and family members grieving today and the days and weeks ahead. Mark - you were one of the agents I considered a friend as well but probably never got to say it enough. I'll always remember your call about our contract and how I talked you into not making a decision I felt you would regret. Forever grateful I convinced you to change course in your original decision.
