“ Brent & Anna would visit often & i'd joke to him: who's protecting me while you're off duty, i'd have given anything to protect you kid. as each day passes I learn just how much you really meant to me & I gotta say you're visits here truly brightened our days. gonna miss them like crazy. not even gonna ask who's protecting that bride of yours as God has his best angel on duty. we love ya Brent Phelos

Our son, 24, was buried two years ago near Brent and was an Army veteran. Reading Brent's story reminds me of our son Tyler Andersen; he loved motorcycles, wakboarding, snowboarding, video games, oldies, and was well respected by all in his platoon. He left behind his wife of only 6 months when he died. He also died of an accident. If only I could have departed in his place because he was so loved and had so much life yet to live. We'd love to talk to you and help ease your grief, if that can ever be done. My heart is broken by Brent's story, which is very similar to our Tyler.

We'd love to chat!

“ Brent, what can I say you are truly my Hero. Life won't be the same without you calling me at work for advice. I felt so proud every time you called and asked for help. Most of all I am extremely proud of the man that you became and all of your accomplishments and obstacles that you achieved and overcome. You take with you a big piece of my Heart. Our lives will Never be the same without you. Rest In Peace my son. Until we meet again I will always cherish our memories together and value your words of encouragement. I love and miss you so much.

“ Brent was the orneriest lil guy I knew... he was such a cutie and had a good heart when he wanted others to see it... as he got older and him and Anna got together.. the person he was changed in so many ways.. Anna and Brent were true soulmates.. he complimented those things in her and she did the same for him... I am very proud to call him nephew and proud of him for what and how he became. Brent.. you will be missed but we all know that you are flying high with the angels... love you buddy.
