

Darryl Franklin Casad

February 9, 1936 - December 3, 2021

Darryl Franklin Casad, 85, attended by loving members of his family, died peacefully

Friday, December 3rd at his home in Omaha NE.

Darryl, born on February 9th 1936 to his parents Franklin and Alice Casad in Stockton, Kansas. As a young adult he learned welding as a trade, and worked as a plumber/pipefitter on various large-scale construction sites including the John Day Dam on the near Keyport Washington. In his career he worked for a variety of different companies, the most notable included Peerless Truck and Trailer, Todd and Lockheed Shipyards, and the Federal government installation at Puget Sound Naval Shipyard.

Columbia River, the Valdez Pipeline in Alaska, and the Trident Submarine Station

Darryl also served in the U.S. Navy Reserve.

Darryl always enjoyed "working with his hands," as he would say, and took pleasure in rebuilding home interiors, building large metal sculptures, oil painting, and creating Nscale model railroad landscapes. He especially enjoyed many hours in his large shop

(next to his home in Belfair Washington) building from scratch, then flying his radio controlled airplanes alongside other members of the Belfair RC Model Airplane Club.

Darryl retired at 62-1/2 years of age.

Darryl and Maria had a large set of dear friends in Belfair, Washington with whom they would regularly go on long walks as well as rotate from home to home to play cards, tell stories, and enjoy good food well into the night.

Darryl Casad is survived by his wife, Maria, of 41 years; step-daughter Trish and son-in-law Brett Thompson; his son, Marc Casad and daughter-in-law

Connie Austin; his son

Michael Casad; and grandchildren Ben, Marijke, Ellen, and Indigo. Other special families close to Darryl's heart included Joe and Suzy Scuderi, Orlando and Airian

Medina and their children, who Darryl adored and relished being a kid right along with them!

“ This was the last RC Airplane that Darryl built. He was excited when this plane came back in production. He told me his friend at his last flying club had one and it flew great so he had to get it. He wanted me to maiden this plane but I told him I would fly it after he flew it. Cold weather came and postponed the first flight. When he moved to his new place he gave this plane to me with the understanding that I would keep it and not give it to the club. Darryl gave many planes to the club in the last 2 years. Darrel left us before he could fly this CJ-6 airplane. I told him we would fly this together and now he will always be in our memories at the field. Someday I will fly this in his memory. I hope I don't crash.

This Bull fighter that Darryl made was an image of him. He used himself as the subject. He will live forever in this metal piece of art. My wife being from Spain really love this statue. take care and hope to see everyone next year having a life celebration for Darryl. Bill Tabor
