Tribute Wall

“Lois was one of the strongest and tenacious individuals I’ve had the privilege of knowing, and some might even describe her as stubborn. She was also gracious and made herself available to others.

Lois attended high school at Notre Dame in Omaha, where she developed a love for singing. She was married to my dad for 50 years, a union that was built on love, partnership, and mutual respect. During that time, she completed her nursing degree (RN) while raising three young daughters. She spent much of her career working for an ophthalmologist and as a nursing director at Florence Home.

Alongside her marriage, Lois maintained long-standing friendships, some lasting over 60 years. She and my dad were devoted grandparents, always present at sporting events, band performances, school parties, and all the special moments in the grand children’s lives.

Lois had an appreciation for plants, particularly African violets and the Dieffenbachia she inherited from her grandfather, William Hajek. She also had a love for the arts, regularly attending local performances at the Holland Center, Community Playhouse, and Orpheum theater.

Travel was another passion of hers, and she accomplished the goal of visiting 10 man-made wonders of the world and 10 natural wonders of the world.

As my mom, she guided me with unconditional love, always offering support while giving me the space to find my own way. Her love for our family was immeasurable—especially for John, Ann, Scott, Jenna, Aaron, Bob, Ian, Alec, Christine, and me. I know she was proud of each one of us.

I will miss her answering my phone calls, with a cheerful “What’s up, girl?”, her random texts and social media messages, the pictures of her Christmas cactus in July, the Christmas Eve gift exchange game. And of course, I’ll miss her homemade cream puffs with vanilla pudding and strawberry rhubarb pie, which she made specifically in Grandma Sindelar’s pie dish.

Finally, I will cherish the meals we shared together as a family, the laughter and love around the table.
