“ My grandparents, Bob and Rosie Starr, introduced me to Marj when I was young. I loved seeing her and Gary at Fontenelle Forest and Neale Woods. I later took her biology class, and after that I appreciated that she was still teaching and my son got to take a class with her.

“ I'll never forget that Marj put the finishing touches on her thesis the day before she gave birth to Nathan. I had it copied and brought a copy to her in the hospital. She was a great student, a great teacher and a great friend, “ Marj and I became friends as young adults. It's hard to put into words what her friendship meant to me. We grew older together living through life events. We were very comfortable in our relationship and always enjoyed our outings. I will miss her friendship.
