In Loving Memory of Patricia Mae Johnson

July 28, 1949 — January 24, 2026

Patricia Mae Johnson was a woman of immense heart and vibrant spirit who leaves behind a legacy of deep compassion and unwavering love. Born on a summer day in 1949, Patricia navigated life with a generous soul that defined everything she did.

Her greatest devotion was always to her family. As a mother, her heart belonged to her four children—Joe, David, Ben, and Samantha—whom she raised with boundless support and affection. She was the steady foundation of their lives, providing a home filled with warmth and care.

Patricia's love, however, was never confined to her own household. She possessed a rare and beautiful kindness, famously opening her door to children who didn't have a family of their own to love them. To many who felt lost or lonely, Patricia was a sanctuary. She provided the safety and belonging that every child deserves, proving that family is built through the heart and the choices we make to care for one another.

In her retirement, Patricia found her greatest joy in the company of others. Her home remained a place of connection, where she loved hosting dinners and engaging in long, meaningful chats with her dear friends. She had a unique gift for making people feel truly seen and welcome, ensuring that no one ever left her table without feeling a little fuller in spirit.

While we feel the profound weight of her absence, we celebrate the light Patricia brought into the world. Her influence lives on in the family she cherished, the children she took in as her own, and the many lives she touched with her open heart.

Patricia is survived by her children, Joe, David, Ben, and Samantha, and her siblings, John, Allyse, and Joan. Her memory will be carried in their hearts forever, honored every time a door is opened for someone in need.

In Lieu of Flowers, Memorials are suggested to the Family for later designation.
